

Thursday lunchtime talks and discussions: 'Resist! The future of collective action and unionisation' and 'Understanding Cardiff: perspectives from members'

We are pleased to announce two series of lunchtime events hosted by Cardiff UCU and taking place on Thursday lunchtimes throughout the semester.

'Resist! The future of collective action and unionisation' is a series of research talks in which our very own experts on political organising reflect on how their research can inform our actions and those of the broader union movement. Talks will be followed by discussion.

In addition we announce 'Understanding Cardiff: perspectives from members' – a series of casual conversations in which members with particular expertise explain and take questions on some of the most pressing issues facing our branch.
